

Good Fires, Bad Fires

destroying	The hurricane is destroying the city.
traditionally	We traditionally celebrate New Year's Day with family.
animals	There are many animals in the zoo.
located	The hotel is located in the city center.
reasons	There are many reasons why people learn Japanese.
spends	She spends her weekends studying Japanese.
millions	Millions of people visit Japan every year.
teaches	She teaches Japanese at a language school.
phenomenon	The Northern Lights are a natural phenomenon.
effects	Smoking has many harmful effects on health.
chemicals	There are many chemicals in cleaning products.
soil	The soil in this area is very fertile.
diseased	He caught a diseased fish.
harmful	Excessive sun exposure can be harmful to the skin.
insects	There are many insects in the forest.
sunshine	She loves basking in the sunshine.
helps	Exercise helps improve physical health.
seeds	I planted some flower seeds in the garden.
manage	He can manage his time well.
harm	Pollution harms the environment.
leaves	The leaves on the trees are turning red.
plants	I like to grow plants in my garden.
fuel	Gasoline is a common fuel for cars.
hotter	It's getting hotter every day.
removing	I am removing the weeds from the garden.
destroyed	The earthquake destroyed many buildings.
ecologist	The ecologist studies the environment.
adds	She adds sugar to her coffee.
remove	Please remove your shoes before entering the house.
communities	People in small communities often know each other well.
buildings	There are many tall buildings in the city.
actions	Our actions have consequences.
figures	The figures show a decrease in sales.
temperatures	The temperatures are dropping.
melted	The ice cream has melted.
dries	My clothes dry quickly in the sun.
drier	This summer is drier than usual.
forests	There are many forests in Japan.
governments	Governments are responsible for providing public services.
fires	Wildfires can be very dangerous.